Level of Significance: national state local

The Chichester house is significant as an exceptionally nice example of rural Victorian architecture, built during the late nineteenth century. The house includes fine architectural detailing such as the pavillion front with center gable, pedimented window heads, and a porch with chamfered posts and Victorian jig-sawn trim. The house is believed to have been built about 1890, probably by Washington B. Chichester. Washington received the land on which his house was built, 194 acres of a tract of land referred to as "Oatland,"through the last will and testament of his mother, Mary B. Chichester (who had received it from her family, the Bowie family). Washington B. Chichester is listed in Boyd's History of Montgomery County, Maryland as an Olney area farmer.

The house remained in the Chichester family for many years; being passed from one generation to the next. In 1925, it became the property of Washington's son, Robert H. Chichester and his wife, Henrietta. Later, in May of 1950, they conveyed the house and surrounding farm to Ridgley Chichester and his wife, Virginia. Then, in June of 1964, it was finally sold out of the family to the present owner, Carl Freeman.
